Canadian Language Learning College (CLLC) takes the health of its students, staff, and community seriously. Since we learned of the outbreak of the Coronavirus (COVID-19), we have been monitoring the Government of Canada's health updates on the virus to ensure we are taking all necessary steps to protect our students and staff. We also continue to monitor the response of Nova Scotia and Ontario's health ministries.

The current status in Canada of COVID-19 is that it has closed its borders to non-residents. We will be ready to welcome new students the moment Canada re-opens its borders. We are offering a free deferral for students to delay their studies by 12 months.

The Government of Canada is asking people to social distance themselves and self-isolate as much as possible. The Government has asked that all non essential services be cancelled and employees work from home if able. The overall risk in Canada currently remains low, however we must take precautions to prevent the spread of the virus.

CLLC has closed its campuses Monday, March 16th, 2020 and Tuesday, March 17th, 2020. At this time, our team is preparing for online classes to begin on Wednesday, March 18th, 2020. We are a family, CLLC will continue to support our students and agents during this time.

We believe online classes are the best way to offer our students and staff support for the foreseeable future. We will be following the guidelines and recommendations of the Government of Canada moving forward. Updates to our students and agents will be frequent and detailed over the coming days and weeks.

Those who have travelled outside of Canada in the last 14 days and who develop a fever with a temperature of 38°C or higher, and/or cough, should call 811. Do not present yourself at a hospital or COVID-19 testing site without contacting 811 first.
